WM. LAUT

YOU AND YOUR STORE BILL

We hear a great deal every day about not selling your grain on account of falling prices. This is a matter vital to us as well as you. The question is what is to be done under the circumstances.

In the first place we want it understood that we realize fully the position you are in and no one is more anxious than we, that you should receive the highest returns for your labor. But you are in no different position from the rest of us. We must all pay our debts and surely that applies to a farmer as well as others. Practically every retailer gives you credit, often in large amounts, and running over long periods of time. These credits are given with the understanding that when your crop is harvested, you will pay. On no other basis could we do it and continue in business. If you will not sell sufficient to pay your retail merchant how can we our wholesaler.

Another thing, we have had an era of high prices. We all kick at the cost of living. With the return of normal conditions prices are bound to come down. This will apply to grain as well as other commodities, and you must face these changed conditions as well as we. The truth is that wheat prices especially are speculative. What assurance has any one that the price may not be even lower later on. And if you want to take that chance, have you a right to do so while your accounts are unpaid. Should you speculate with money that really belongs to your retailer or to his wholesaler.

So far as we are concerned our own necessities are so great that we must insist that our customers whose accounts are overdue, sell something and pay. We are always willing to help reasonably and at the proper season but we have to pay and we cannot do it unless you do.

Do you Need Buildings?

If you do and put off building because lumber is high, are you not making a mistake?

There is not any prospect at present of lumber prices going down much for a number of years, and the comfort you and your family will get out of a good house will more than repay any extra cost. If it is a barn or machine shed you need your live stock and the life of your machinery will more than repay any extra cost.

Our prices, however, are not high, our price list mailed to you on request, will prove that the quality is of the best and is thoroughly air dried.

Is the League Dead?

The Republican party having scored an overwhelming victory in the United States Presidential elections on a platform of opposition to the League of Nations, fathered by President Wilson, confident assertions are made throughout the big republic that the League is dead.

Speaking on the night of the election when it became apparent that the Republicans would sweep the country, Senator Boran, of Idaho, a strong opponent of the League, declared that he regarded the election "as the triumph of nationalism and the death of the League of Nations." Two days later, on November 4, in his first speech as President-elect, Senator Harding said "the Versailles League of Nations is now dead."

Do these prominent American politicians really believe that because the United States disapproves of the covenant of the League, and refuses to become a party of it, that, therefore, all the other nations of the world will abandon the League? Surely not. Some forty nations have already joined the League of Nations, entered into an offensive and defensive alliance, while another group entered into a similar arrangement, the natural and inevitable result being that each group sought to outdo the other in the piling up of armaments, and the tax-burdened people of each were made to bear the load upon the specious plea that it was necessary that they should maintain great armies and navies because the others were doing so.

The League of Nations was designed to protect all; to provide a guarantee of peace should any one nation seek to act aggressively and unjustly against another. There is nothing aggressive about the League; it is purely defensive—a policeman of the world. And it is inconceivable that the nations of the world will "scrap" this institution of mutual protection merely because the United States decides to stay out of this common world brotherhood.

Undoubtedly, the covenant of the League is not perfect. How could it be expected to be arrived at, as it was, during the heat of aroused wartime passions. But no human legislation or institution set up by mere man is perfect, and certainly not in its initial stages. There was never an Act of Parliament or Congress passed that did not later call for amendment in the light of actual experience. The League covenant is not like the laws of the Medes and Persians, unchangeable. It will be altered and improved and strengthened as the years pass. But it provides common ground upon which all nations and peoples can meet, and through goodwill and co-operation it can be extended and bettered.

The recent election in the United States may mean that the League is dead so far as that country itself is concerned, although even that is doubtful. Taught for over one hundred years that they should have no entangling alliances with, or take part in the quarrels of European nations, the American Government and people strove mightily to keep out of the Great War. But today war-tires, airships, submarines and so many time and distance-shrinking devices, is not the world of George Washington's time. No nation can live unto itself alone, and this the United States was finally forced to admit by entry into the League.

The American people may still desire to keep aloof and free from the difficulties of the Old World, and decline to assume responsibility for the order and good government of the world at large, but they will discover sooner or later that such isolation is not possible. As a great creditor nation, with Europe owing it many billions of dollars, the United States is deeply concerned in the restoration of peace and order in Europe and in the maintenance of peace there. Removed though it be by some thousands of miles from Europe, the Great War disclosed the fact that the oceans of the world do not constitute an impregnable defence. In the days of small and slow-going ocean vessels, the United States could afford to ignore war-like preparations in Europe. It can do so no longer. Furthermore, as a nation engaged in trade and commerce all over the world, the United States and every interest in that country, is vitally concerned in the establishment and maintenance of stable political conditions everywhere.

The League of Nations is not dead. Certainly, no party election in the United States can kill it. Its form may change with the passage of time, but the principles upon which it is founded must live if this old world is not again to be plunged into the unspeakable horrors of universal warfare on an even more gigantic and destructive scale than prevailed between August, 1914, and November, 1918.

SUFFERING OF YOUNG WOMEN

This Letter Tells How It May be Overcome—All Mothers Interested.

Toronto, Ont.—"I have suffered since I was a school girl with pain in my left side and heartburn. This has continued growing worse each year until I am all run down. I am a widow and a mother. I was so bad at times that I was unfit for work. I took various concoctions and patent medicines, but was only relieved for a short time. A doctor wanted to perform an operation, but my father objected. I finally learned through the aid of Lydia E. Pincham's Vegetable Compound, and how thankful I am that I tried it. I am relieved from pain and cramps, sleep well and feel strong. You may use my letter to help other women, as I am only too glad to recommend the medicine."—JEAN KENT, 42 Blantford Street.

Education and Wealth.

When one considers that the increase of economic wealth, which is industrial production, can in the last analysis only be provided for by the growth of intellectual capacity, which is education, the realization must follow that eventually, and at no very distant time, the teaching profession will regain its rightful prestige and will be free from many of its temporary handicaps.—President Hopkins, Dartmouth College.

Parson and the loss his going meant to the District.

Mr. W. McRory referred to Mr. Pearson in his capacity as Secretary-Treasurer of the club, and made reference to the amicable manner in which their differences had been settled, and mentioned the fact that out of weather there was Mr. Pearson's wife who had been taken ill.

Mr. Pearson had been taken ill quite by surprise at the gathering that had been drawn together for the purpose of wishing Mr. Pearson a happy retirement, the members of the club and the friends that had always existed in all their business associations. He will speak again to all the kind words that had been said about him, and mentioned that out of weather there was Mr. Pearson's wife who had been taken ill.

Mr. Lamb in a few witty remarks said Mr. Pearson had a fine physique, a fine brain that had been given him, and said if he had devoted the time and energies spent in the public service to his own interests, he would have been a much better man.

Mr. E. S. McRory, Western Manager of U.F.C.A. also paid a tribute to his friend, and mentioned that he had been a prominent figure in municipal affairs but also in U.F.C.A. and other causes that had for their object the betterment and improvement of the community in which he resided.

Mr. Percival, Manager of the Imperial Hotel, also paid a tribute to Mr. Pearson, and said he intended to be present and of the good fellowship that had found to exist in the community of the district.

Mr. Waters, a former member of the Bank of Commerce, and a few remarks wished Mr. and Mrs. Pearson success in their new home.

Mr. William took occasion to wish Mr. and Mrs. Pearson success in their new home, and God speed, good health and prosperity in their new home.

Mr. F. Purvis and Rev. R. K. Swanson spoke in the strain of regret.

Then followed a musical programme interspersed during the evening, the following being the items: Overture, The Crossfield Orchestra; Duet, Violin and Piano, Misses Gordon and Tannet; Solo, Mr. Schlesinger; Solo, Mr. Waldock; Song, Mr. Hopkins, Overture; The Orchestra. The proceedings closed by the company singing the National Anthem and Harry's Jolly Good Fellow.

He unsnapped the dog's chain and Joe sprang up and left a wet kiss on the widow's cheek. "I'm a low whine of welcome he bounded away.

"Get down, Joe, you good-for-nothing dog, get down," commanded a voice.

McTavish turned to see Mrs. Ross and Mary Ann coming up the path.

"Good-mornin', good-mornin'," he showed.

"Well, well, now, but you two are early visitors. I say, we're grand mornin'. Come up to the house—the little m'l'll be glad to see you both."

"How is she to-day?" Mrs. Ross rather out of breath from fighting off Joe, set her basket down on the grass and leaned against a tree.

"I don't say she's any stronger, wider."

"Verily, all flesh is as grass," sighed the good woman, shaking her head despondently.

The man glanced up quizzically. "Ma is quoting scripture," explained Mary Ann. "She says we all should waste according to some text in the Bible."

"The godly man, Mr. Smythe has taught me much, Daniel," proclaimed the widow, stooping for her basket, "not sayin' but what I was disbelievein' that there was as little grass as there is Mr. Smythe pointed out those very words in Lukeronomy, 8th Verse. My Books tell me so."

McTavish looked at Mary Ann. The girl was smiling and her black eyes were dancing with more than the zest of life. She took the basket from the woman's hands and they passed up the path toward the house. "I can't just understand what's wrong with me," said McTavish. "She don't seem to suffer from just a few weeks day after day. She's too weak to be carried a long distance to see a doctor, and it's too far here for a doctor to come. I wish I knew d'what to do."

Mary Ann laid her hand on his arm. "Why not get old Betsy to come and see her?" she suggested.

"Mary Ann?" The widow stood still. In the pain and eyed her daughter sternly. "Are you sensible of the disenglanded ages to allow one of pernicious rubbish to moulder away?" What does the good Book say about witchcraft but that it's 'red in the cut and stingseth like a snake in the grass'?"

"You're thinkin' of the verse as cautioning us against strong drink, widde?" corrected Mary Ann kindly.

"Look not upon the wine when it is red." Do you know?" he went on slowly, "I've been thinkin' as maybe Betsy can cure people. We know she cured some of our people right here in Bushwhacker's Place."

"Oh, she cri'd, 'You were all waitin' in you would both come over this mornin'.' What d'ye suppose we are doin', Mac? Am I?"

Gloss met the visitors at the door and held the widow's hands tightly. "Oh, she cri'd, 'You were all waitin' in you would both come over this mornin'.' What d'ye suppose we are doin', Mac? Am I?"

"The time to tell," returned the widow, sniffing the appetizing atmosphere. "If them ain't cookies you're bakin', I don't know cookies or bacon, and hear, I say, there ain't the sweet little bacon here."

She crossed the room and bent over the wavy couch.

"Aye, ye say, you got up early, too, dear?" she asked. "You were all waitin' on the coverlet in her, and patting it caressingly. "Goin' to help with the bakin', eh?"

"Well, if you'll hear her bossin'! Granny, I'm around you thinkin' what was takin' a handfull right," cried Gloss, "and she's that wasteful Mrs. Ross, bound to use twice as many eggs as are needed, and then we'll use our pork-fryin's for short'nin'. We got to use pure lard, think of that!"

"They are contrary," charg'd the widow, her eyes regarding the visitor on the table. "I'm around with sleeves tucked up above the elbows, was cutting disks of dough with a can-top, 'but I make them obey,' Mrs. Ross—don't I, Granny?"

"Aye, Mary, that you do," smiled old lady, placing a basket of newly gathered eggs on the table, "but we'll make it a long, for a week we'll be here you'll be up an' at work all day, we'll be cookin' youself! An' then we'll do the boppin', won't we, Bonnie?"

"Z'we will," cried Gloss, "we'll make it a long, for a week, Granny."

McTavish entered, carrying a big golden pumpkin in his hand.

"Decide says he wants these punkin-pies," he said, according to ma's ways, "he grins, 'I'll be back in a jiffy and have them ready when we're all done with the red check."

"Somewhow I wish there was goin' to be a weddin' as well as a loggin' on the 1st of Oct." he said, with a smile since Peeler's big Jimie made French Joe's little Jimie a year ago.

"McTavish's fiddle'll begin to play this big bush place is gettin' behind the hill."

"Mr. Simpson don't take to fiddle-music," observed Mrs. Ross, with a sigh.

Mary Ann glanced quickly at Mary Ann, and the eyes of the bush-girls had a look of mutual understanding.

"Bill Paisley loves fiddle-music," cried Gloss, dropping the long pan of brown sugar cookies on the table and reaching for the old violin.

She placed it in McTavish's hands and caught up Mary Ann from her chair, whispering her long secret along the girl.

"Play, Bill," she commanded, and McTavish, sitting on a corner of the table, struck up the old tune of "Turkey in the Straw."

Up and down the room the girls flashed every movement of grace.

The warm blood showed in their cheeks, the wild life in their eyes.

Not many could jump to the quick mind that old Mrs. Gloss and Mary Ann had learned how.

Granny McTavish, in her corner, pealed her pretties with quick, unbroken slaps, jumping up and down to the inspiring strains of the fiddle.

Widow Ross arose, clapping her hands in time with the rhythmic face aglow and something akin to youth in her foot.

She leaped up on the couch and the quick music of the fiddle was heard in her ears and held it against her face.

"Mae," she whispered, "I'll try even harder than I have been doing."

He picked up his fiddle and made to rise, but the luid hissed.

"And Mac," she said, a catch in her voice, "you mustn't worry about me,

"I'm not fit to stand by any more,"

"Oh, it has made me feel so much better," declared the sick woman. "I do love the fiddle, and it does seem to do me good."

"When the little ma is well, which please God 'll soon be," said McTavish, "we'll have a real old-fashioned Aviators Cut Fire Losses.

Fire losses in the forest reserves of Alberta are expected to be greatly decreased this season owing to the splendid work accomplished by the aeroplane forest patrol operating from Morley, is the opinion of a member of the department. Since the aviators started their work they have been able to spot out a number of fires and by notifying the rangers, the fires were extinguished before any appreciable damage was done.

From the Diary of A Hudson's Bay Clerk in the Seventies

By O-GE-MAS-EE (Little Clerk).

Making an early start next morning and taking along Pat's traps, we again made for the creeks. We left our canoe at the mouth and struck up stream. An hour's steady tramping brought us to a beaver dam only roughly constructed; a little further up another dam slightly better made, and above them a splendid dam backing up quite a lake of water. Event the two first dams were only intended to relieve the pressure of high water on the principal one. At the far end of the lake we saw three large beaver lodges, with hard-trasted trails on all sides and trees fallen in every direction, many of these being cut up in short lengths. There were piles of chips and every evidence of busy work. The beavers had built this dam as he estimated there were from forty to fifty or even more beavers resident, and as he had a big catch with the H. B. Company, he was the means to pay it and also the choicest of food for the wife and little ones.

Walking round the lake very quietly, we selected two good stands for watching that evening, as beaver seldom come out before dusk. Then, after a hasty lunch we went further up the stream setting traps in the most likely places. Returning to the beaver village about sundown we very noiselessly took our places, and then followed a long wait. We were both armed alike, double barrel guns of the usual H. B. style, 28 bore muzzle-loaders with percussion locks, the barrels being extra heavy, making them suitable for a heavy shot gun. They cost at that time $100 each, breech and load at the present time with 3 1/2 drachms of powder, f-2 oz of shot, a tight fitting wad and a round bullet on top of all. This combination was a very deadly one at close quarters. At last I noticed the water leave close in front of my stand, and some ripples followed, again and once again. Then up burst the head of a large beaver, which I immediately shot behind the ear and it at once sank in some twelve feet of water. Stripping off my clothes and standing like Don Cupid on the bank, I was about to dive after my game, when Patrick appeared, smiling to see my unusual costume. On describing the facts, told me to dress, and cutting a long dry pole, screwed a gun-worm on the end of it (twisted wire which will carry for extracting wads), and after some prodding, began to turn it in the hole I had in. Joy however large fine beaver, and I commenced to dance with delight as it was my first one. It was now quite dusk and we started for camp on the jog, and Hartley was the welcome we received on reaching here, and before long we were enjoying a delicate dish from the choicest parts of the beaver, which, and I speak from experience,

SHORT OF BREATH Could Hardly Walk Without Resting.

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected, these early feelings of chafing, tension, a shuddering of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Tonic should be resorted to. They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole nervous system.

Dr. Sir George Cross, East Clifford, N.S., says—"I suffered for five years with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting. I used to have to stop for breath. Doctors could not help me. My wife told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I soon felt better after taking them three times a day. I feel quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different person."

is very excellent food indeed, something between young pork and lamb.

Next day we were to visit the traps and repeat the watching in the evening. The first trap was not disturbed, but in the second was a beaver, which we soon despatched. This trap was set in a tiny affluent of the creek which was very shallow with a stony bed, but banks about four feet high, low soft moss on the bank, with scattered spruce and birch. As Pat specially looked after the traps, being his own property, I lit my pipe and snuggled down in the moss for a quiet smoke, while he arranged everything in order and re-set the big double spring No. 4 beaver trap (no small task I can tell you). Nothing more do to now but stay the traces of human scent so finally filled his mouth with water to spout on the willows by which he was pulling himself up out of the creek. As he had a very hooked nose and round owl-like eyes, the sight of this apparition ascending from the creek, with his cheeks extended at their widest, was too much for my gravity, and I simply yelled with laughter. This startled Pat that he left the willows and dropped into his own trap in the creek. Great was the splash, and what sounded like Indian oaths filled the air. Rendered too weak by laughter to be of much assistance, I crawled to the edge of the bank and surveyed the scene. The chain to the trap allowed about two feet or more play and the Indian was caught fair in his bare hands and was soon at that point being breeds out and loaded at the present time with 3 1/2 drachms of powder, f-2 oz of shot, a tight fitting wad and a round bullet on top of all. This combination was a very deadly one at close quarters.

At last I noticed the water leave close in front of my stand, and some ripples followed, again and once again. Then up burst the head of a large beaver, which I immediately shot behind the ear and it at once sank in some twelve feet of water. It was now quite dusk and we started for camp on the jog, and Hartley was the welcome we received on reaching here, and before long we were enjoying a delicate dish from the choicest parts of the beaver, which, and I speak from experience,

After spending several more successful and pleasant days, and securing sixteen beaver for my share of the hunt, it became time for me to return to duty. The hunting—bang went on. I camped out all night with my traps, I decided to go alone. So one fine morning, after loading my small craft with the fur we had killed, also two beaver untouched for the Chief at Cumberland, I shook hands heartily with my late companions who looked sad at the parting. Then stepping cautiously into the canoe, away I went. On reaching the Saskatchewan I had to be extremely careful in navigation as my canoe was loaded to a few inches of the water, also the mighty river was full of driftwood. I camped that night for the last time beside the mighty river. Well the Crees named it "Kiss-setche-wan-Sepé," the big, swift flowing river, corrupted by the white man to Saskatchewan.

Allies Consider Ultimatum to Force Treaty Ratification.

Paris.—A despatch to the Havaas Agency from Constantinople says:

"As the Turkish government continues to postpone the execution of certain undertakings required by the Allies, notably the ratification of the treaty of Sevres by the Imperial government, the trade and financial aid given the Ottoman treasury will be curtailed. If that measure does not produce results, the delivery of an ultimatum is being considered."

Big Immigration Movement

Encouraging Entry Into Canada of Farmers and Farm Lab.-ers.

Winnipeg.—The Ottawa correspondent of the Manitoba Free Press says: It is estimated here that the immigration movement to Canada for the present year will approximate 190,000, the new comers being very largely from Great Britain and the United States.

This total is considered highly satisfactory for the first real post-war year, especially in view of the fact that the policy of the department at the present time is to encourage the entry into Canada of farmers, farm laborers and domestics only. The high water mark in Canadian immigration was reached in 1913, when 403,456 persons entered the Dominion. For the first six months of the present fiscal year a total of 95,005 persons entered the Dominion, an increase of 30 per cent over the movement for the corresponding period last year. In the matter of origin these were divided as follows: British, 52,768; United States, 30,763; other countries, 11,474.

Paralyzing Blow is Directed at Sinn Fein Finances

Seizure of Funds is Said to be Clipping Rebel Activities.

Toronto.—A special cable from London to the Toronto Star says:

"Sinn Fein is directed at its pocketbook, according to the Irish office today. The office declared there was a marked cessation of Sinn Fein activity following bank raids in which records and funds were located. Steps have been taken to choke off the supply of money from America also.

A report of the Sinn Fein Minister of Finance showed £22,607 set apart for the "Self-Determination Fund." It also shows £200,000 (nominally $1,000,000) had been received from America in subscriptions to the Irish Republic Fund. A fund of $2,995,643 was also shown to be on deposit in New York.

Art O'Brien, secretary of the Irish Self-Determination League declared British raiders seized £20,000 from one bank, but that the amount was made good to the Sinn Fein by the banker who had the funds in charge.

Plan Relief Expedition

Will Send Relief to Schooner Ice-bound Off Siberia.

Seattle, Wn.—Nome, Alaska, residents are planning to send a snow sled relief expedition across the frozen Arctic to the trading schooner Polar Bear which is stuck in ice off the Siberian coast, 225 miles from Nome, according to reports received here. Reindeer will pull the sleds.

The Polar Bear has a crew of five men and less than two months' supplies aboard. The boat is believed to lie within 50 miles of the schooner Maude, on which Rauld Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, is attempting to reach the North Pole.

Growth of Creameries And Butter Exports In Western Provinces

As late as 1914, Manitoba was a large importer of creamery butter, the province's imports of creamery butter for the year named being 20 carloads. In 1912 it had been as high as 55 carloads imported. Then in 1915 the province began to export butter and the amount sent out increased rapidly from year to year. Last year Manitoba exported 153 carloads.

This change of position from the importing to the exporting column has been a large factor in gradually altering some very fundamental things in connection with butter manufacture, and the truth is that, without the public taste detecting it in any decided way, the Manitoba factories have changed the nature of their output almost completely during the past few years.

A few years ago the creamery butter was much nearer in character to dairy butter than it is now, says the Montreal Faculty. He said: "Then a great deal of quite sour cream was gathered and clotted, the idea being held by many patrons of the factories that more butter could be made from 100 pounds of cream if it was quite sour than if it was comparatively sweet. The cream was churned without pasteurization, and the butter was liberally salted. This gave a high flavored butter—a butter with decided flavor in its unsalted state, and then with the particular tang which the salt itself contributed.

Joys of Rural Life

Community Work Means the Development of a Moral Purpose in Life.

There is much of adventure in hunting hills, woods and prairies for hidden treasures in the way of rare flowers, insects, animals, birds, and studying their ways; the finest kinds of competitions can be held in this way; a community museum can even be started, and a thorough knowledge of our local district must lead on to the desire to extend our knowledge to other fields.

From an interest in nature and its works around us, will be developed an increased interest in humanity and its ways. The different races of our country, their romances, and history will excite a desire to know and understand them—another study for the explorer's spirit. All these interests would lead to an increase in the feeling of community responsibility and a real citizenship.

Interest in community work means the development of a moral purpose in life; it means an awakened intelligent citizenship; it means the birth of the co-operative spirit which is the only means by which civilization can progress upwards; it means Christianity in action. To develop it in the young people needs organization, needs leadership. The young people are ready for it; it's up to the people to provide it.

The boys and girls are responsive enough, given the right lead, but this must come principally in the rural districts from the parents in the homes and the schools. The schools are rapidly waking up, but their work will be mainly delayed if the parents maintain the attitude of indifference so often met with to-day.—Mrs. W. H. Parfley, President, U. P. W. of Alberta.

Green Is Nature's Color.

Green is a restful color. Oscillists say that of all colors green is the most friendly to the optic nerve, in lands where eternal snow is a silent white scene. Hence those placing defenses, men have to shade their eyes or go blind. But green grass never bothers the eye. One can stare a forest in the face all day with impunity. Nature's greens never get on our nerves.

A man's ears are placed so that he may catch all things said to his face. It was never intended that he should hear the things that were said behind his back.

But when the Western Canadian provinces went into the export trade in a fairly large way they found that this class of butter would not do, and so the Dairy Branches of the Provincial Departments of Agriculture for Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, working more or less in concert, began a strong campaign to change a number of the butter-making practices.

They found, by experimentation, that the most satisfactory butter for the long cold storage, that is essential in the export trade, was a milder, cleaner flavored butter, made from cream that is practically sweet, and which is pasteurized before churning and salted only very mildly. Contrary to the prevailing opinion, it has been found that salt had been overrated as a butter preservative; that in many cases it was hiding the change in flavor which marked the change in condition of the butter rather than actually preserving the butter from change. And so, after years of campaigning, practically all the creameries of Western Canada—certainly all the clearing creameries—are now making an almost sweet cream, pasteurized, lightly salted butter, and this butter can be put into storage and taken out again twelve months afterward very little changed—an ideal export butter.

While it is easy enough to tell of this change, it has needed very strenuous work to bring it about.

Built Fake Paris

Disclosure of Camouflage to Deceive German Air Raiders.

A sensation has been caused by the revelation of the secret plans of a "fake Paris" built about fifteen miles outside the city limits to attract German Goths during their night raids, thus preserving the real Paris from their bombs.

By means of thousands of wooden houses, trees and a series of railroad stations, mines, and factory sites were created which imitated to perfection the real ones.

The Eastern Railway station, for instance, was constructed at about ten miles north of the city, with its buildings, moving trains, signals, and a factory nearby apparently going at full blast.

To stimulate a station, wooden framework was covered by transparent canvas. Lit from below the effect was that of huge vaulted domes like the real railroad stations. When the Goths were signalled the lights were lowered sufficiently to make it seem an attempt was made to hide the station in darkness.

For more than two miles beyond the fictitious station were fictitious trains composed of a series of wooden panels, the size of the usual railroad car, placed flat on the ground.

To both sides of the panels was a light which from above seemed like the reflection from lighted windows.

Special electrical arrangement made it appear, at times, as if the trains were moving.

Minute plants had been made to produce a false "heart of Paris," the Saint Germain forest, some fifteen miles away, while about twelve miles to the west, a huge factory town was to have been simulated.

The armistice, however, prevented the carrying out of these plans, and Mr. Jaczopci, the inventor of the ingenious "town camouflaging system" is now looking for another war with other air raids to be able to perfect his ideas.

World's Smallest Coin.

The coin of the least value ever issued is the "mite," so-called, such as the widow of the Bible contributed to the poor. Its shape was hexagonal, and its value about one-sixth of a cent. It would take five thousand mites to make one dollar.

Prominent Railway Official

MR. S. J. HUNGERFORD.

Receives New Appointment

Now Vice-President in Charge of Operation and Maintenance of C. N. Railways.

Samuel J. Hungerford, who has been appointed Vice-President in charge of Operation and Maintenance of Canadian National Railways, is of the type of man, young in years and old in experience. Born near Bedford in Quebec, in 1872, he was only 48 last July, but he has been engaged in the business of the "rolling wheel" for 34 years.

As a boy of 14, at Farham, Quebec, he first really became acquainted with a railway locomotive.

Metaphorically speaking, he boarded them and has made it carry him from the lathe of the machinist's apprentice to the chair of the Vice-President

when he, when the Grand Trunk system is included, the world's greatest railway.

Mr. Hungerford is a man of quick action who never seems to be in a hurry. He has a wide circle of friends in the railway world—friends that he made while mastering his various jobs in the Mechanical Department at important railway points clear across the country. Any of these friends, officer or employee, Eastern or Western, will say that "S. J. is there with the goods," and that he knows a locomotive and a car from the rails up, and how to utilize them to the best advantage. He has the reputation of being past-master in the art of handling men, of one who can never be beaten on wage negotiations, and of one who is an all-round diplomat, the proverbial rock when necessary.

The job of Operating Vice-President is one of the most important in railway service, and, as the Canadian National is easily among the biggest of railway systems, S. J. Hungerford's new job may be classed in like proportion.

He will have the direction of forces that spend more than 90 per cent. of the total operating expenses of the system, and these on the present mileage (including the G.T.P.) and with the present scale of expenditure, amount to 167 million dollars per annum. It is Mr. Hungerford's business to see that the great expenditures of money day by day on the publicly-controlled road are so made as to insure the largest return to the shareholders.

Industrial Centre of Western Canada.

Facts and figures which will be used in the tariff enquiry to establish the strength of Canadian industry, have just been made public by the Bureau of Statistics, and show that at the end of 1918, when the information was gathered, the city of Winnipeg, Manitoba, has 779 industries with a capitalization of $82,709,029, employs to the number of 19,181, a payroll of $18,773,622, and an output of 154,995.

Produce New Wheat Which Will Do Well In Northern Districts

As a result of experiments which have been carried on by the field husbandry department of the Manitoba Agricultural College, a new wheat has been produced which, it is expected, will find a place in the north.

This statement was made by Prof. T. J. Harrison at a conference of officials held in Winnipeg recently.

Prof. Harrison said he did not know how the new wheat compared with Ruby wheat, but he believed it was a wheat that would be of some value in the northern districts.

Another interesting announcement by Prof. Harrison, was that 1,500 bushels of wheat seed of different varieties has been produced on the college experimental field, and 350 bushels on the demonstration farm at Birtle. The seed had cost the province considerable money, and he did not want to scatter it broadcast about the country and so lose control of it.

It was the intention to distribute the seed in a way that would ensure that when it was propagated it would go into the seed bins, and not into the elevators.

W. C. McMilliken, of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Brandon, spoke of the agronomic work being done, and declared that satisfactory progress was being made with the testing of grain varieties and soil investigation.

Speaking of rotation work, he said there were eight rotations under test. These covered the straight grain growing system without the application of manure, and the same system with manure applied. Other experimental work is being carried out with combinations of grain crops.

Valuable Clays in B.C.

Bentonite, A Soluble Clay of Great Commercial Value Is Found at Merritt.

A valuable discovery has recently been made at Merritt, British Columbia, as a result of an inquiry from the British Imperial authorities, asking for information as to possible deposits in Canada of bentonite, a valuable light yellow soluble clay, in appearance something like soapstone for which great industrial possibilities are developing. Wondrous glacial fields, startling precipices, snow-capped peaks, wide forest areas, clear lakes and peaceful valleys combine in enchanting array. Add to this the 165 miles steamer trip on the palatial Princess steamers from Vancouver to Victoria and Seattle on Puget Sound, the most charming inland voyage known, and you have a pretty fair idea of what the Canadian Pacific has to offer the traveller to the Pacific Coast.

Vancouver Island is recognized as Canada's all-year resort, where golf, motorizing and other outdoor pastimes may be enjoyed every day in the year. Thousands of miles of magnificent motor roads radiate from Victoria to the points of interest.

A visit to the coast that does not include a few days at Victoria cannot be justified. It is rather a pity to spend the time "doing" cities that are in most of their essential features very much alike, if it means eliminating Victoria, when by a four-hours sail by steamer on one of the most beautiful stretches of inland waters in the world, your trip may take on all the characteristics of a foreign tour.

A trip to the Pacific Coast this winter will be time and money well spent. Any Canadian Pacific Agent will gladly furnish particulars and any information which may be required.

The Silver King.

To buy a silver mine at a sheriff's sale for $200, the property being sold to pay wages due the purchaser and then to sell the mine a few years afterwards for $75,000 has been the good fortune of Pedro Salina of Alive Arm, British Columbia, who just disposed of the Esperanza mine to a group of Vancouver men.

How Much to Marry Upon.
Out in Indiana a Justice of the peace, who specializes in marrying, said a salary of $10 a week was enough for a couple to marry upon. The pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal Church thinks different, saying the salary should be at least $900 a year. Three other married men said no one should marry on less than $50 a week, and a woman who was interviewed warned young couples it always would require $10 to $15 a week more than they estimated live.

Smuts is Praised

His Action in Bringing About a Union of the Parties in South Africa Prevented Strife.

The London Times says that General Smuts' patriotism and wisdom and that of the Dutch-speaking people who call him leader, has saved South Africa from the dark certainty of a civil war. They make attempts at reconciliation with Herzog and Nationalists, but always on the understanding that a compromise with Nationalists, which the Nationalists would not concede. General Smuts has now made an appeal to all South Africans who believe in racial unity to reject Republicanism, which appeal has been enthusiastically received by his own and the South African party and also by Unionists which represents almost wholly the English-speaking South Africans led by Sir Thomas Smart.

The new party to be formed may involve the complete disappearance of the Unionists. Both component parts of the new party, says the Times, make costly sacrifices, namely Smuts and his party, that of a formidable breach with men of their own race, and Smart and the Unionists that of the identity of their party with all its traditions and proper pride. Both will have the added consolation of the knowledge that devotion to their country's welfare is worth infinitely more than racial ties or party triumphs.

Changing Seed

Experiments Show Can Nothing

To Recommend It.

Many farmers still think it advisable to change their seed grain every two or three years. In the light of the work done by the various experimental farms of Canada, this practice has nothing to recommend it, while on the contrary, it has been shown that there are distinct advantages in not changing seed. By the use of a good sowing-mill it is quite possible to grow the same grain year after year on the same farm and maintain its productivity, provided that the grain is selected each season on well-drained, fertile soil. The seed should not be blamed for poor farming, which is most frequently the cause of the farmer's dissatisfaction.

WHY ANAEMIA PREVAILS

The Strenuous Conditions of Life To-day Are Responsible.

Mothers who remark that their girls today are more nervous and irritable than they were ten years ago, should look back at the surroundings in which they and their companions lived. They would easily see the reason in life's altered circumstances to-day.

Now the school-girl's life is more strenuous; her more numerous diets are a severe tax upon her digestive organs. Also after business soon after leaving school at an age when they need most rest and outdoor life. Their wondrous development is hampered by the strain of scanty meals. Girls are more liable to blood-sickness today, but there is this difference between the two former recorded anemia as often incurable the cures are now counted in tens of thousands. Such medicines as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have restored health to thousands of weak, anaemic girls and women, simply because they contain the elements necessary to make new rich, red blood which means good health and vitality.

When your daughter's strength fails and palor, breathlessness and backache disclose her anemic condition, you can be sure that you can help her well and assure her healthy development by giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to make good red blood.

Remember too that for women of all ages Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially helpful in the many ailments that result from watery blood. They make women and girls strong and healthy.

This is amply proved by the case of Miss Eva MacKinnon, Glanmore, Ont., who says: "As a school girl I grew very weak and pale, and was tired all the time and sometimes vomited. My condition was such that I was not able to attend school regularly, and my mother was very much worried about my condition. Finally she did what I told her to do. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I took these for a considerable time, gradually gaining strength until I was perfectly well. It is some years since I took the pills and I have enjoyed the best of health, and I am certainly pale, sickly girls will find new health if they give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can procure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any druggist in medicine or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or 25c a box for 22.50 by sending direct to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Flashlights of the Anniversary

The first held for some years, the Anniversary at Union Church was thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowds present Saturday and Monday. It was an event of significance in the life of Crossfield district and is bound to influence for good the future of our people. It would be impossible to give a detailed description of all that took place. Only a few flashlights are possible. The benefit of music was clearly shown. The Orchestra and Choir gave splendid service and provided "body" for the program. Mrs. M. Turner was the soloist. Her voice was well received. The choir as well as her fine solo were appreciated. Rev. J. P. Berry B. A. beloved as a former Pastor, brought the necessary connection with the past history of the church. It is well to remember kindly the Pastors who gave themselves to the cause of truth and righteousness in our midst in the years gone by. The question Mr. Berry dealt with in his sermon is one much in the minds of people. "Is the World Growing Better?" He faced the situation frankly. He said that pleasure is controlling the minds of many people. When this is realized we should become more interested in building theatres. Twenty five thousand dollars had been taken in one theatre in Calgary in one week recent. On the other hand he thought there were hopeful signs. People realize how imperfect this world is and are longing for something better. Some heroes with true mission the Promised Land and say "Let us go up and possess it for we are well able." But others in fear cry out "See there are giants in the land." Was there ever a time when men had so greatly the forward look, the thoughts of brotherhood?

It is sometimes questioned "Can you have a good evening fun without a dance or refreshments?" And while the answer depends a good deal on the individual's taste, yet there can be no doubt that Monday night provided a worth while, good time of enjoyment for everyone. Mr. Rendall, Choirmaster of Grace Presbyterian Church, Calgary, led the Community Singing playing the selections from memory with much ability. This part of the program was an introduction that commanded itself. Mr. Rendall's solos "Nirvana" and "The Trumpeter" were greatly appreciated, especially the latter. Rev. J. P. Berry professed in the capacity of chairman and before him the purpose of the Anniversary and worthily combined humor with earnestness and the appeal to the nobler motives. That Crossfield has good musical talent was evidenced not only on the Sunday evening but also in the Entertainment in the Violin Solos of Mr. T. L. Golden, the Vocal Solos of Mr. W. Waldeck, the choruses by the Sunday School and the selections by the Orchestra. Every possible encouragement should be given to our home performers to play the game.

Dr. Kerly powerfully stirred the people in his lecture on the live subject "The New Canadianism." People were moved to laughter and to tears, to the deep lish of intense listening and to spontaneous outbursts of applause. He said among other things "Let us not be prompted by selfish nationalism. There is but one race and that is the human race. Canada is now one of the great nations of the world and has its representatives in the assembly of the League of Nations in Geneva. We have paid over eighteen million dollars in the last four years to get the stranger and foreigner into Canada and to their wives and their children to give them a home and a meal. But the time has come not to raise Austrians, Bohemians, Galicians and so on in our midst, but to raise full-blooded Canadians.—The children of rural Canada are not getting a square deal educationally. The chief trouble is with our school trustees.—There are too many lines of cleavage in Canada geographical (The Great Lakes, Economic, Capital and Labor), Manufacturers and Grain Growers religions. At the close of his lecture Dr. Kerly made an appeal on behalf of a poor crippled girl who has come to Mount St. Albert. In the last act of the door a dollar was placed in the box at the door by the sympathetic audience to help this handicapped boy get an education.

The main object of the Anniversary was to bring cheer and inspiration and uplift for the days to come. It is felt that that object has been achieved. There was no attempt to center effort on the raising of a large amount of money at the present time. And yet the local institution received a good degree of financial support, the total being about one hundred and fifteen dollars. To all those who with such a fine spirit of willingness gave their useful service grateful thanks are expressed.
